CHOICE FAT EWES ARE SELLING AROUND $10.50

LAMBS BRINGING ABOUT TWO DOLLARS MORE.

Prices Very Little Changed From the Previous Week On the Better Grades of Beef Cattle, Although Canner Cows Are Some Lower—Hogs Steady Despite Knocking.

Correspondence The Sun.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Jan. 13.—Cattle receipts today were twenty-seven thousand head and market steady to fifteen cents lower. Top $17.20. Hog supply was twenty-one thousand head and market five to ten cents higher. Top $17.55. Sheep receipts were seven thousand head. Market barely steady. Top lambs $16.50. Prices are very little changed from a week ago on the better grades of beef cattle, though canner cows are twenty-five to fifty cents lower than a week ago. Beef steers show a slightly better average quality in the last week and bulk of them sell at $13.50 to $16.00 with a few lots upwards to $17.75. Colorado pulgated steers sold up to $17.00 recently, culped bulls $10.00, choice native heavy bulls $11.00, canner cows now sell at $6.50 to $7.00, butcher cows $7.50 to $10.00, choice heavy cows up to $13.50 and veal calves $11.00 to $14.00. The supply today is extra heavy for January which is partly due to a surplus accumulated at loading points during the recent storms and which is now appearing at the market. The limited supply of stockers and feeders last week met a good demand and prices were fair during the week. Mild weather, which magnifies the approach of spring, brought out a good demand today and prices were steady. Feeders sell at $11.00 to $13.40 and stock steers $7.50 to $14.00.

Consistent effort is being made to put hog prices down, but progress in that direction is slow. Sales today were slightly better than the close of last week, though ten to fifteen cents under a week ago. Best medium-weight hogs brought $17.05, best heavy hogs $17.50 and best lights $17.30, with bulk of sales $17.00 to $17.35. It is probable that receipts will run as heavy as the committee will permit during January, and in that event the market may work downwards to some extent through the month. Stock pigs are receiving more attention from buyers and sales are a dollar higher than a week ago, stock pigs selling at $13.00 to $15.25. Further advances on these are expected.

After making a good advance a week or so ago the fat lamb market has been somewhat unsatisfactory although no special decline has set in. Receipts here are not much more than half as heavy as a year ago, which permits salesmen to retain certain advances. Fat lambs today brought $16.50. Ewes brought $9.75 today. Choice fat ewes are worth up to $10.50.

Silage Tops Fatal.

For the first time Utah farmers have begun to feed silage beet tops to horses and the result has been fatal, according to Dr. R. W. Hoggan, state live stock inspector. He was called to the farm of A. A. Capet near Riverside in Box Elder county last week, where eight big draft horses out of a band of nine, had died apparently as a result of poisoning. The lost animals were worth about eighteen hundred dollars. An investigation disclosed that Capet had been feeding silage of beet tops, which acted as a poison. A post-mortem disclosed that the animals were suffering from laryngitis and gastritis. The mucus membranes had been detached, so that the horses were unable to swallow food or drink. Paralysis of the throat resulted and ended in death.

Dr. Hoggan advises farmers not to feed silage beet tops to horses, for fatal results will almost certainly follow.

Utah Must Aid Show.

Public support for the National Woolgrowers' convention and the intermountain stock show, held the former be diverted to some other city than Zion and the latter be discontinued after this year, will be asked of citizens through the Salt Lake Commercial club. These gatherings are scheduled for April, and it is expected that hundreds of delegates will be attracted.

To enlist the proper backing a committee of commercial club members consisting of James P. Casey, chairman; H. F. Dicks, Louis Simon, J. E. McKendrick and E. A. Culbertson has been appointed by the board of governors. Plans for an aggressive appeal to the public will be outlined at a meeting of the committee to be called soon by the chairman.

The Salt Lake conventions and shows of the woolgrowers and stock association members have attracted nationwide interest. As an instance of the high rating of exhibitors, E. C. Parsons calls attention to the fact that a record of champion lambs was sold for forty-two cents a pound last year, establishing a world's record.

"An indication of the interest taken in the coming stock show," says

Parsons, "can be seen in the fact that an exhibitor who last year displayed a carload of lambs at Chicago and won first prize and then exhibited at Denver, Colo., and won first prize there, in this year fitting a car for Salt Lake City and will not exhibit either at Chicago or Denver."

"It costs Denver about ten thousand dollars a year for its show, which has grown into one of the biggest in the country. There is no reason why we cannot do the same thing."

Three Counties Affected.

"There are in round numbers about two million sheep in Utah, and of this number there are three counties in which small bands are afflicted with scab. This information is given out by the state live stock commission, which declares that the sheep in the state are practically free from scab," says Secretary Thomas Redmond of the state live stock commission. "In Rich county there is an outfit from Idaho which is afflicted with scab, but this band will be dipped as soon as the weather permits."

"In Davis county there is a band of sheep owned by a Utah outfit, which came in from Nevada a year ago which was effected with scab, and this band is a holdover. There is an outbreak in Tooele county involving one band of nine hundred and thirty, and five small ranch bands that are afflicted. This has been traced back to a scabby buck left in Utah by an Idaho outfit."

"All this," says Secretary Redmond, "shows that in so far as Utah sheep are concerned they are in good condition."

Business Quite Brisk.

At the North Salt Lake live stock market last Saturday the sale of a choice load of twelve hundred and ninety dehorned steers brought in by Hans Christensen of Salina was a feature of the trading. The selling price was thirteen and one-quarter cents a pound, a new high mark for the season. Two loads of cows at nine cents, two loads of fat hogs and one ear of fat lambs were also sold by Christensen. A choice load of two hundred and thirty-five fat hogs from Vernal, shipped by the farm bureau, sold at $15.85 a hundred. The St. George farm bureau sold three loads of mixed fat cattle, which were driven nursery males to land and then shipped by rail. Hog prices remain steady with packers rapidly picking up all offerings of fat hogs. It is hoped that at the conference in Washington, D. C., next week some definite price will be fixed for the coming months. Depression seems to prevail that the present minimum at Chicago of $17.50 will continue during February.

Holding Their Wools.

HOUSE, Ida., Jan. 11.—Idaho woolgrowers have decided to hold their wool and make no contracts for the 1919 clip. This action was taken yesterday by the Idaho Woolgrowers' association at its annual convention. Condemnation of government control of railroads is made by the woolgrowers "because of the poor shipping service afforded the live stock industry during the past year." The convention has gone on record as being "opposed to government paternalism," and a recommendation is made by resolution that the railroads be returned to private ownership as soon as possible.

With the Live Stockmen.

Utah live stockmen and cattlemen have begun to feed. There seems to be plenty of hay, but there is no more at ten dollars unless it is some that was down when so much rain fell in July.

The state live stock commission last Saturday sold one month's catch of furs for $789.50. This included seventy-seven coyotes, seven bobcats, eight badgers and five skunk. Eight coyote hides in one bunch sold for seventeen dollars each.

Increased receipts of cattle, hogs and sheep at thirty-two markets during November, 1918, compared with receipts at the same markets in November, 1917, are shown in the monthly stockyards report just issued by the bureau of markets, United States department of agriculture. November receipts for both years, with 1918 figures first, were cattle, 2,183,545—2,158,719; hogs, 3,479,633—2,091,658; and sheep, 2,972,768—607,335.

Hogs valued at a hundred thousand dollars were sold at eleven fat hog auction sales in November by the California Fur Bureau Marketing association, which comprises the marketing departments of the farm bureaus in King, Tulare and Kern counties. The prices received are described as more than satisfactory, being much better than those paid by local buyers. The auction sales also have taught beginners the importance of raising better hogs, as they have seen that packers discriminate between hogs fattened on grain and those raised on skimmed milk and alfalfa pasture alone.

Every ton of straw, every ton of corn stover and every ton of clover, sheep hay produced on the farms should pass through the cattle to be used as bedding after having been offered to them. Beef cattle, especially steers and dry cows that are being wintered, may be given cheaper feeds than grain, such as well-cured corn stover, straw and hay, with one or two pounds of cottonseed meal. They should be given all of such roughages, however, that they will consume with a relish. Breeding cows and young growing animals should be given out-

REPUBLICAN PRESIDENT IS PREDICTION OF BOURNE

MANAGER OF PUBLICITY BUREAU GIVES REASONS.

Responsibility, However, Rests Entirely With Members of the Party the Country Over—Candidate Must Be From Among the People and Not Machine Ruled Man.

Correspondence The Sun.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Jan. 15.—Hon. Jonathan Bourne, Jr., chairman of the republican publicity bureau, today gives out a statement from national headquarters here in which he says the next president of the United States will be a republican—this being indicated by all the signs of the times. There rests upon the rank and file of the republican party, therefore, the responsibility of selecting the man who shall be their nominee, and, as a consequence, the chief executive of the nation. This responsibility rests upon the rank and file, for, under present systems of nomination the voters exercise a very direct influence upon the choice. In fact, nearly a third of the states have presidential primaries. He also says: "In discussion of the nomination of candidates and the election of a president in 1920 it will be fortunate for the country and for the republican party if discussion of types of men shall precede discussion of individuals. It will be well if we get away from the notion that a candidate should be chosen chiefly upon the theory that he is a good vote-getter, with minor consideration of the sort of record he will make when elected. The duty resting upon republicans is to select as their nominee the man who will probably serve the nation best, if elected, and then if their candidate be not elected, the responsibility will not be theirs. It will also be well to get away from the fallacious and mischievous notion that a candidate must be selected because of geographical location. It is a stupid perversion of popular government to assume that a man is barred from the presidency either because he occupies an office in New York or has his habitation among the growing industries of Detroit or Arizona."

"What this nation needs, first of all, is a president who believes in the American system of government—a government that is divided into three branches, legislative, executive and judicial, each performing faithfully and efficiently its own duties and not attempting to dictate the acts or policies of the others. Experience has shown that waste and inefficiency result from neglect of administrative duties by an executive who tries to run the legislative branch of government. This nation needs a president who has had broad training and experience in the practical affairs of the world and of government. We have suffered irreparable injury from the halting and vacillating eccentricities of theorists whose chief skill is in making fine phrases that mean anything or nothing as subsequent events may make expedient. We need a president whose associations and sympathies have been with the producers of the country, for upon the prosperity of the producers the future greatness of this nation must rest. We use the word producers in its broadest sense, and a consideration, but of a secondary sort, may be given to people who draw their services only as consumers."

"There are three classes of men whose training and habits or thought limit them for the presidency. These are schoolmasters, professional military men, and men who have served long on the bench. Men of these classes have been removed from close relation with the world of affairs. They have formed the mental habits of a dictator—habits that are accentuated rather than overcome by election to the presidency. This country needs a servant, not a master, in the White House. Under our form of government, the people, through their representatives in congress, make the laws, and the president is charged with the duty of executing them."

"There are plenty of men in the republican party who have the qualifications for successful administration of the office of chief executive. Full, friendly and frank discussion will bring them to public attention."

CURED AT A COST OF TWENTY-FIVE CENTS.
"Eight years ago when we first moved to Matteson, I was a great sufferer from indigestion and constipation," writes Mrs. Robert Atkinson of Matteson, Ill. "I had frequent headaches and dizzy spells, and there was a feeling like a heavy weight pressing on my stomach and chest all the time. I felt miserable. Every morsel of my food disagreed me. I could not rest at night and I felt tired and worn out all the time. One bottle of Chamberlain's Tablets cured me and I have since felt like a different person."

The nation owes a great debt of gratitude to our soldiers who have fought in the first line of attack and to the wage earners at home who backed them up without complaint and with no desire to capitalize a rare opportunity.

EVEN TEN DOLLARS FOR BEETS

Agreement Between Growers and the Sugar Factories.

Following close upon the announcement that sugar beet-growers and factories of Utah had agreed upon a price of ten dollars a ton, to be paid for beets delivered in 1919 and that the price of pulp would be reduced, comes the announcement from Grant 4, Graves that the Beet-growers' Sugar company of Rigby, Ida., had fixed a flat rate of ten dollars as the minimum price to be paid for beets delivered to the Rigby factory.

Graves, who is one of the company's sales managers, adds that under the ten dollar minimum rate plan, farmers producing better beets may receive as high as twelve dollars and fifty cents for their product. The directors of the Beet-growers' Sugar company adopted the best price at a meeting at Rigby, January 7th. At the same time the directors agreed to furnish pulp to the growers at one-half the market price, according to Graves.

At the conference of Utah sugar producers and beet-growers it was agreed that the price of pulp should be a dollar during the remainder of this season and eighty cents a ton in the next two years. Before the ten dollar a ton contract price is official, it is to be indexed by the farm bureau in Utah.

WILL URGE ACTION ON SOLDIERS' LAND BILL

In an effort to expedite action on the proposal of Secretary Lane of the interior department to appropriate one hundred million dollars to reclaim lands for homes for soldiers, Senator King last Monday conferred with various senators from the West, with the view of securing the united support of Western senators in the promotion of the necessary legislation. There is an awakening sentiment in favor of the legislation, according to the report, and the senator finds it essential that Western senators take an active and leading part in the support of this legislation and then see that a fair share of the appropriation is spent in the West.

UTAH WEATHER BUREAU LIKELY TO WIDEN SCOPE

With a view to extending the service of the weather bureau by giving accurate information as to road conditions and the effect of weather changes on traffic on the Utah state and other highways, co-operation of highway officials, garage managers, automobile owners and those in the postal service are invited to make reports regularly to the Utah office of the weather bureau, such reports to be compiled and distributed through the newspapers and otherwise at government expense for mailing, telegraphing or telephoning.

After the needs of this additional service have been established by the Utah office, J. Carl Alter, in charge, makes the announcement that he will make a report to the chief of the weather bureau at Washington, D. C., as to the advisability of inaugurating such a service. In this effort to extend the usefulness of the weather bureau, Alter explains that he was inspired to exert it because of the scores of inquiries which reach his daily concerning the severity of storms and the extent of the rain or snowfall.

It is his desire, he says, to offer every facility of his office to the state road commission, the state court of defense, automobile associations, commercial clubs, newspapers and postmasters.
